December is the twelfth month of the year in the Gregorian calendar, even though its name suggests otherwise. Decem is the Latin word for "ten," hearkening back to when December was the tenth month of the year. When January and February were added to the calendar, December became the last month of the year. December has the shortest daylight hours each the year in the northern hemisphere and the longest daylight hours in the southern hemisphere.

The Difference Between Living and Living Well

December Critters: The Animal in You

December 1 - 7: The Cat

You are a private yet playful person who greets each day with a smile. You're a good listener with a positive attitude who always has a joke at the ready, qualities that make you a pleasure to be around.

December 8- 16: The Alligator

You are clever, creative, and full of surprises. A perfectionist at heart, you want things done the right way. While you love the comforts of home, you also thrive on adventure and exploring the great outdoors.

December 17 - 25: The Tiger

Sophisticated yet down to earth, you have confidence in spades. You are athletic and active and always enthusiastic about trying new things. Friends and family count on you for advice, support, or even just a hug.

December 26 - 31: The Dolphin

You are the rock your friends hold onto in times of trouble. You also make every celebration more fun. However, while you have a strong social side, you also plenty of time alone.
